Students plan Americanism demonstration at City Hall

By RICH ADAMS

A group of local students, with the support of Bay St. Louis City Hall and endorsement from the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, have slated a Friday patriotic display of support for hostages being held in the American Embassy in Tehran.

A Tuesday planning session followed cancellation of an earlier protest last week at which students intended to burn an Iranian flag.

The protest was cancelled when Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams said the students could not conduct such a demonstration, fearing such actions might set a precedent for other, more violent demonstrations.

Eight students met Tuesday with C.J. Dumestre at Hancock County Civil Defense Center in Bay St. Louis to discuss possibility of a peaceful assembly to show support for 49 hostages being held by Iranian students demanding the return of the deposed Shah of Iran.

The students and Dumestre plan a short assembly at 3:45 p.m. Friday in front of Bay City Hall with speeches by Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, Waveland Mayor Johnny Longo, Hancock County State Representative J.P. Compreta, and reading of a letter from U.S. Congressman Trent Lott.

Both St. Stanislaus and Bay High Marching Bands were invited to provide patriotic music at the event, but St. Stanislaus said it will be unable to participate because of the short notice.

Bay High Principal Robert Magee said Wednesday he is not sure if that band will participate, and added the offer is still pending.

Bennett said Wednesday he supports

All extinguishers accounted for at North Bay Elementary

By RICH ADAMS

The manager of the company which supplies fire extinguishers to North Bay Elementary said Tuesday a service man from his company found 16 fire extinguishers intact in classrooms at that school which were earlier reported missing.

Jimmy Morgan of Safety Systems Incorporated in Biloxi said his service man found the 16 fire extinguishers in the classrooms and cafeteria Tuesday during a service call.

Norman Bleuler, the service man who made the trip to North Bay, said Wednesday he thinks teachers in the classrooms have taken some fire extinguishers from the wall.

He said he had to rehang two of the extinguishers which had been removed from the walls of the classrooms Tuesday.

Last week North Bay Elementary Principal Billy Sills and Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Richard Fayard would not comment on an investigation by the Fire Department into the status of the extinguishers.

Sills had said at a Nov. 12 school board meeting a fire extinguisher was in every other classroom, but parents who visited the school later during an open house said they saw no extinguishers on any walls in any classroom.

Last week Morgan said he would send a service man out to check into the matter, but Tuesday said he had not been in town and the service man had made the service call on his own.

Bleuler said Wednesday the school is complying with regulations, adding the 16 devices in the classrooms and offices are more than ample for the building.

"We could have put one unit for every two classrooms, but we have a device in every other classroom," he said.

In an inventory report Bleuler lists the 16 extinguishers and their location.

Chamber elects Wayne Ducomb

By EDGAR PEREZ

Wayne Ducomb, Jr., Sea Coast Echo reporter-photographer and vice president of Mississippi Monitor Publications, Inc., of Bay St. Louis is the 1980 president of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Ducomb was elected to the position by the Chamber's board of directors at a monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Outgoing president Richard Thomas of Moore and Powell accountants was elected vice president and Mary Perkins, publisher of The Coast Chronicle, was re-elected to third term as chamber treasurer.

Perkins reported at the meeting the chamber will finish out the year next month with a surplus.

Also Tuesday, the directors approved a resolution offered by board member Rev. Charles Clark endorsing a proposed student demonstration at the Bay St. Louis City Hall Friday afternoon.

Clark said he had attended an organizational meeting with St. Stanislaus students and Principal Brother Elton Crifasi who also represented students of Our Lady's Academy, and Bay Senior High students at Hancock County Civil Defense office Tuesday afternoon.

Clark said the students plan an "Americanism and patriotic" demonstration Friday in connection with the Iran crisis.

"I'm for that kind of demonstration and I feel we should be proud of our students," Clark said.

In accepting the chamber presidency, Ducomb noted, "We are going to see growth in Hancock County like we've never seen before."

He said development of the U.S. Army Ammunition Plant at NSTL continued growth of NSTL and additional industries in and around Hancock County will be primary factors in an unprecedented growth in the county in the early 1980's.

Thomas expressed appreciation to directors and chamber staff for "cooperation you have given me during the past two years."

The chamber's annual banquet is slated for Friday, Dec. 7 at Diamondhead Country Club. Social hour begins at 7 p.m. and dinner is to be served at 8 p.m.

Jerry Benigno, chamber executive secretary, noted reservations must be made by 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 30, and is urging those chamber members who have not yet made reservations to do so before the deadline this week.

Featured speakers at the event include William F. Patient, operations vice president for Borg-Warner Chemicals-Americas, and John M. Ranson, manager of Borg-Warner's proposed plastics plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park near Pearlenton.

Perkins reported the annual Christmas Tree Lighting sponsored by the chamber is scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 9.

A parade bearing Santa from Our Shopping Center in Waveland will begin at 4:15 p.m. and events at the foot of the Bay St. Louis automobile bridge, location of the tree, will begin at 4:30 p.m.

The tree will be lighted as soon as darkness falls, Perkins noted.

The tree is being wired compliments of Bailey Electric Co. with power supplied gratis by Mississippi Power

Corp issues permit to Borg-Warner

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The US Army Corps of Engineers has issued a permit to Borg-Warner Chemicals for a "discharge structure" in Canal No. 2 off the main channel in Port Bienville Industrial Park, Pearlenton.

A spokesman for the Corps' Permits Section said, "The permit is for the actual physical facility which is a six inch steel pipe to the edge of the channel with a 25 foot effluent diffuser running along the bottom of the canal."

"The diffuser is the standard design used on all plants and sewer systems which hugs the bottom of the canal so the effluent doesn't have a slug effect going into the water," the spokesman explained.

"This is a small structure because most of these diffusing systems run about 30 inches in diameter," the spokesman added.

The Corps of Engineers said the pipe and diffuser will be located at the southern end of the present port facility.

Other permits issued by the Corps of Engineers in October were to:

-International Paper Co. for extension of their present permit for dredging a 5-6 foot channel and replacement of a boat shed at Sea Glen Lodge on Mullett Bayou near Pearlenton, destroyed by Hurricane Camille;

-George Patton Waters for a bulkhead, fill and pier in Bay St. Louis near Pass Christian;

-Frank A. Marino Sr. for a bulkhead with backfill on Jourdan River in Hancock County.

Policeman injured in arrest incident

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bay St. Louis Police have charged O'Neal Cochran, 52, Bay St. Louis, with assault on a police officer and resisting arrest, according to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Chief Williams reported that his office received a call to go to the emergency room of Hancock general Hospital on Saturday to investigate a possible stabbing.

"At Hancock General police found that according to Mrs. O'Neal Cochran, she had been cut on her back and right side by her husband," Williams said.

"Police visited a Lounge Cochran reportedly frequented and inquired to his whereabouts. About this time Cochran came from the kitchen area of the Lounge. He was asked to come out, and he came to the edge of the bar and was informed by police that he was under arrest for assaulting his wife," the report states.

"Officer (Louis) Hearty told Cochran to put his hands on the wall, in order to search him. He refused. Hearty attempted to raise Cochran's left hand to put it on the wall, and while doing so Cochran having a knife concealed in his right hand, cut Officer Hearty on the lower left abdomen," the report continues.

"After vigorously resisting arrest, Cochran was subdued and placed in the Hancock County Jail with a bond set at $15,000," Chief Williams reports.

Hearty's injury was minor, according to Williams.

Accompanying Hearty on the arrest was Officer Gordon Campbell, Assistant Chief Frank Hess investigated the cutting.

One of the standbys at Jacob Wirth's landmark restaurant in Bostion is an appetizer listed on the menu as "Sautéed Mushrooms." Don't be misled by the simplicity of the title--this highly flavorful dish is a real appetizer awaker. The mushrooms are first sautéed in a seasoned marinade featuring Worcestershire sauce and dry white wine. Then, the next day, the mushrooms are "sautéed" in the oven until tender, basting several times with the Worcestershire marinade.

We pay, but get no service!

We now wonder if Gulf Coast Waste, Inc. is living up to its contract with the City of Bay St. Louis on garbage collection.

There is no reason other than a disaster, which should cause residents to go over one week without a garbage collection when it is supposed to be collected twice a week.

Several weeks ago, when no holidays were in effect, a street was collected only once during a week.

So Thanksgiving comes along, and some residents had garbage collected the Tuesday before and didn't see a garbage collector until the Wednesday after.

To put icing on the cake, utility bills delivered on Tuesday, Nov. 27 show a 100 percent increase in the garbage collection fee.

Now we ask our city leaders this question: Should the residents of Bay St. Louis have to pay for a service they are not receiving?

We know they have us over a barrel, as the water, gas and sewerage is all on the same bill.

There are folks who are trying to beautify Bay St. Louis and Hancock County, but because of the lack of garbage collections in the Bay, dogs scatter debris all over the streets.

Missing a collection one day and catching up the next is one thing, but missing over a week should not be allowed.

We now wonder if the Bay St. Louis mayor and council are going to look after the interests of the taxpayers and look into these problems involving garbage collections.

Bits 'n pieces

The year of the Green was very much evident in New Orleans Saturday. It had been so long since Tulane had conquered Louisiana State that some felt it was almost impossible.

If ever a team had motivation this season it had to be Tulane, OH! yes, they also were high for Ole Miss but not as high as for LSU.

Ron Green has to be the Coach of the Year for the nation, he knows how to instill motivation in young people, probably he could give coaching clinics on his technique.

While rambling on football, we have to congratulate Irvin Favre and his Hancock North Central Hawks for their come-from-behind win in the annual Wendell Ladner Memorial Bowl last week.

The Hawks have had some very fine records in recent years but stumbled in bowl games. This season they didn't have a terrific record, but they really shined in the bowl picture.

The dedication of coach Favre and his staff is a tremendous asset to the football program at Hancock North Central. Congratulations on a fine football program.

Congratulations are extended to Wayne Ducomb Jr. on being elected president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

We are sure Ducomb will do a fine job at the helm of the Chamber.

Under the leadership of Dick Thomas for the past two years, many things have been done by the Chamber. We extend a shout of appreciation to Thomas for a job well done.

Dec. 17 - 12:30 noon, Senior Citizens Christmas party being held at the American Legion Hall in Bay St. Louis. More about this later.

The Center would like to bring your attention to a survey now being taken at the Center to determine the needs of Senior Citizens in the areas of Day care, Recreation and Transportation.

Please be sure to fill out a form and let us know the kinds of services you need and how often you need them. The State Department of Public Welfare is requiring that we do this to determine the needs you have in these areas.

We would also welcome suggestions on how we could improve our programs. Are there any classes you would like to have here? Can you teach a craft? Let us hear from you in December.

Forms for completion are at the Center, or call any of our staff for a telephone survey completion by us for you.

This is your opportunity to express your feelings as to what you would like the center to provide to meet your interests. Your input is important to the Center who is endeavoring to meet your needs.

Men can not live on bread alone, his spirit needs to be fed also.

Being a lover of the arts all my life I appreciated receiving the opportunity of attending the Mississippi Arts Commission needs assessment meeting held in Gulfport several weeks ago.

The Mississippi Arts Commission is to be commended for the professional manner in which the survey was conducted. The survey was based on a three-year need approach and ten districts were formed from which input was received covering the state.

The meeting at Gulfport was the last of the ten districts covered and included several counties in this area. In this manner the needs of the various counties could be gathered and analyzed.

The meeting was attended by educators, artists, arts-interested individuals, legislators, etc.

A copy of the report of the meeting held in Gulfport was just received and I thought you would be interested in sharing with me the results of the input expressed by the various citizens who attended the District meeting which included various counties in this area.

Under the heading of Facilities, the suggestion that a "Fine arts center museum in the Coast Coliseum complex for visual and performing arts" received 24 points; State Arts Organizations - "State should issue brochure stating what interest it has in arts as well as how much funding is available, and what funding is available and how to apply for it" received 24 points; Education - "Encourage the state to develop and strengthen programs that will prepare arts educators on the elementary level" - received 23 points; Audience Development - "Seminars for the awareness of arts - a need" - received 12 points; Funding - "Awareness of outside sources of funding and specifics of how to apply" - received 13 points; State Government - "Mandatory acceptance and promotion of the arts in local schools through actions of the state legislature" - received 27 points; Technical Assistance - "Experts hold workshops in schools and community" - received 15 points; Training - "Lack of instruction in sculpture (Hancock County)" - received 13 points; Programs - "Programs designed for children" - received 13 points; Programs - "Programs designed for children" - received 9 points; Special Constituencies - "Scholarships for exceptionally gifted children in the arts" - received 5 points; Community Development - "Encouraging arts technology project thereby tapping our growing industrial resources" received 4 points.

Bear in mind the above categories received the greatest number of points in that particular category.

After the meeting was over we felt that it was difficult some times to give up one of our own views to vote for an idea which would benefit the entire community.

NSTL bachelor, master's registration continues

Registration continues through today for winter quarter courses to be offered by the University of Southern Mississippi at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

Myron Webb, USM-NSTL coordinator, said registration is being conducted from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the USM office at the Test Site.

Webb also noted information on late registration for The American Presidency, course PS-508 in the NSTL master's degree program, can be obtained by calling 864-2155.

The master's degree program began during the fall quarter and has proved popular, according to Instructor Dave Gjestland.

"We covered a great deal of material during the first quarter and hope it was beneficial to our students. Hopefully we can maintain this level of interest throughout the program," Gjestland said.

Gjestland explained that this unique degree program is part of USM's political science curriculum which, he says, has caused some confusion.

Courses in the degree program are designed to meet the needs of those who want to move into positions of higher responsibility.

"Some of the courses may not seem to be management-related, but the whole idea is to acquaint administrators with the political environment under which they have to operate," he said.

"We recognize that many NSTL employees are scientifically oriented, but at some time in order to gain positions of higher responsibility they have to move in management areas.

This degree program is designed to meet these needs," Gjestland continued.

Future courses to be covered in the degree program will include the governmental budgetary process; the Supreme Court and civil liberties; seminars on public administration, public law and the American government; and public personnel administration.

Regular courses for the winter quarter will be Physical Marine Geology-GLY 452-552; Real Estate Principles-REI 330; Personnel Management-MGT 364; Fortran Programming-CSS 340; and Federal Income Tax-ACC 330.

Winter quarter classes will not meet Dec. 21 through Jan. 6, due to Christmas holidays.

Paraquat injection program proposed for county trees

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock Area Forester Rand Reiderich and two representatives from Hercules Pineex, Inc. of Hatfieldburg presented a proposal to the Hancock County School Board Wednesday for harvesting stumps on 16 Section forest lands.

Hercules proposes a paraquat injection program for trees on school lands scheduled for harvest.

"The reagent would be injected in trees two growing seasons before harvest," according to Mike Petter, project forester for Hercules.

"This needs to be coordinated with a long-term forest management plan," Petter added.

Gene Quick, project manager for Hercules explained, "The chemical puts the stump of the tree under a slight stress in the area of injection. Interaction of chemicals in the tree and reagent cause an increased pitch production... reaction is a rich pitch soaked stump or lighter-wood."

Paraquat is a defoliant which has been used by the American government in Mexico to destroy marijuana crops.

Quick says the paraquat injected in trees is a weak solution which doesn't effect the soil.

"This sounds like a good deal and a new income source from something that has been wasted in the past," Reiderich commented.

Petter said, "We will work with your area forester and induce the chemical in the tree. After the timber is harvested we push the stumps up."

"We presently have a similar arrangement with Perry County," Petter added.

"The county could lease their land at $2 an acre per year or collect 50 cents per ton at harvest," Quick said.

School Superintendent Terry Randolph and Board President Woodrow Ladner said the county would have to advertise for bidders for the proposal.

International Paper Co. may be buying lighter-stumps also," Ladner said.

"International Paper harvests stump, tree and all but we are the only company in this area which has this particular program," Quick explained.

Hercules began development of their injection process in 1973 in south Mississippi and has been expanded to areas as far as South America and Australia according to company reports.

"I support this 100 percent. I think it is good to learn that youth of this city want to show the rest of our neighboring cities what good Mississippians and Americans they are," the mayor said.

"I am proud to know these type of youth live in the community," he added.

At Civil Defense Headquarters Tuesday Dunsmore met with students Piccola Dietrich, Martha Smith, Jimmy Collins, Mike Lyons, Carlos Lozano, Ernie Zimmerman, Charlene Clark, and Michelle Moran.

Also in attendance were St. Stanislaus Principal Brother Eldon Crifasi and the Rev. Charles Clark of the First Assembly of God in Waveland.

Following some 2.5 hours of discussion and planning, the students agreed to a demonstration which will open with the advancing of the American flag and school flags.

Lozano will then give a welcome address to the audience, followed by an invocation by Ms. Smith.

Collins will then lead the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance while taps are played in the background.

Bennett, Longo, and Compretti will address the crowd, followed by a prayer for hostages in Iran and two U.S. Marine embassy guards killed during an attack on the American Embassy in Pakistan.

The band will close the events by playing "God Bless America."

the NASA buffer zone.

According to Superintendent Terry Randolph the proposed site is about 15 feet above sea level.

However, upon reviewing the overall 40-acre site plan for the new school, Board Member Monvel Cuevas questioned placement of the football stadium over a natural gas line.

"You may want to move the entire property area away from that gas line because it's a safety hazard and we've got to consider expansion," Cuevas said.

Randolph said, "The school wouldn't be any closer to the gas line than the gas line near North Central."

Mykolyk said he feels the gas line would not be a problem, but noted the site plan could be altered to move the stadium location.

In other business, the board:

—Tabled for review a $21,870 payment to MIRI, Inc. of Long Beach for payment No. 3 on re-roofing work at Hancock North Central;

—Tabled a proposal by Stinson Fence Co. for a four foot fence along the road at Hancock North Central by the bus yard costing $465 for materials and $255 for labor;

—Authorizing payment to Stinson Fence Co. for fencing and gate repairs amounting to $387;

—Released Ronnie McArthur from the Hancock County School District to the Bay St. Louis School District.

Company. Refreshments will be served. Perkins said anyone interested in joining in the parade from Waveland to the bridge is welcomed.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Dolph Kellar will preside at the tree lighting.

Beautification Committee Chairman Warren Carver said an earlier proposal to hire independent contractor to maintain US-90 neutral grounds and rights-of-way has been rejected by the State Highway Department.

Carver said a campaign promise by Sheriff-elect Ronnie Peterson to institute a work program for prisoners may be the answer to keeping grass cut along the highway.

Carver also proposed an earlier resolution to seek Highway Department guidance on proposed set-back zoning for US-90 businesses before resinding the matter referred to the Planning and Zoning Commissions of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

His motion was approved by the directors.

Benigno noted the DuPont De Lisle Plant on Bay St. Louis in Harrison County will hold its official opening Monday, Dec. 10.

Benigno and Thomas were slated to attend a Social Security forum Wednesday at Valena C. Jones Center in Bay St. Louis.

The chamber board's December meeting was re-scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m. to avoid conflict with Christmas holidays.

The board meets at chamber offices on US-90, Bay St. Louis.

"I am the owner and operator of my own Cabinet Shop in Waveland. I was looking for a good car. I stopped by Turan-Lane Chevrolet and was greeted by salesman Carlos Carter. Carlos showed me a new 1979 Monte Carlo that I really liked. Carlos showed me how with their easy Bank Financing I would be able to take delivery that day. Turan-Lane and Carlos Carter made buying a new car very pleasant. I do recommend all my friends to stop by and shop Turan-Lane before they buy anywhere else."

North Central Hawks during football season, will make his pugilistic debut at the gym Saturday night.

Whisenhunt said Glass will be boxing a 220-pound south-paw for his initial fight.

"That is Keith's decision, not his coaches," Whisenhunt said.

Glass said training for boxing is much more excruciating than training for football.

"There is a lot more running involved here," Glass said Tuesday night at practice.

"In football you get a break every now and then, but here it is constant work without a breather," he added.

Also slated to see action is Nolan (Spider Man) Vince, who has put in a tremendous showing in the early season.

Todd Rooks, a young boxer who has won a number of fights this season, will face a contender at Saturday's meet which will involve boxers from three states.

Rooks floored his opponent last week in the first round of a scheduled three-round to add to his record with a knockout.

Keith Stauffer will also see action Saturday against a Hattiesburg puncher.

A referee and three judges, all from South Mississippi, will preside over the fights, according to Whisenhunt.

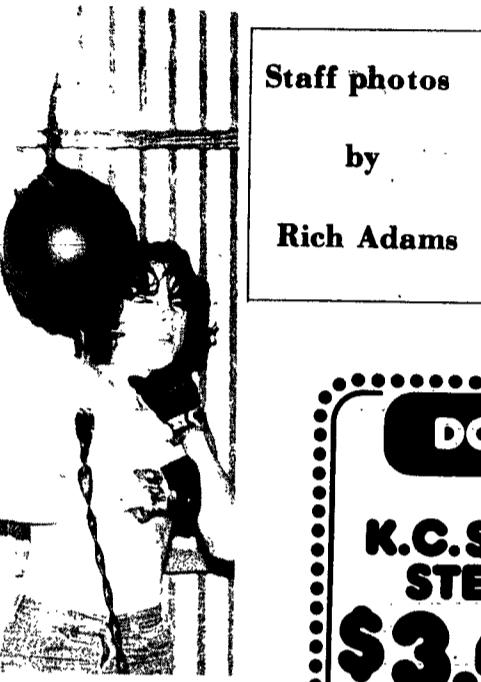

"All the judges are from South Mississippi and have at least 10 years of experience as judges," Whisenhunt said.

"All the trophies here are donated by private individuals and organizations. The eight exhibition rounds for boxers 10-years-old and younger were donated by the Kith Veterans of Foreign Wars," he added.

Tickets for the event are $2 and will be sold at the door of the gym.

Notice To Hancock County Home Owners

IN EARLY JANUARY, 1980, The Hancock County Assessor's office will mail to each home owner, on record, a Homestead Exemption application. This application will be mailed to you in an envelope that can be used to return the application after it is signed and will include return postage. (These special envelopes are similar to the Motor Vehicle envelopes now being used for your tag billings.) When you receive Homestead Exemption application; simply sign on the line designated, fill in Motor Vehicle tag numbers, tear off the back copy for your records and return the white, yellow and pink copies to this office. This is the first time that this service is being offered to the home owners of Hancock County and we feel that some minor problems could arise. If you do not receive your Homestead Exemption application within a reasonable time contact this office by calling 467-5727 or for those citizens living in the Picayune School District 788-8555.

Effective starting in January of 1980, those persons 100 percent disabled, under Federal Social Security, regardless of age, will be eligible for the full $5,000 exemption just as those who are 65 years of age. Those citizens who are qualified as 100 percent disabled under Federal Social Security must come to the office to complete another application. (If it is not convenient for you to come to the office, we will make arrangements to file your application with as little inconvenience as possible).

Those citizens who are filing their Homestead Exemption application for the first time, must come to the office to file their application and should bring their deed to the property, Motor Vehicle numbers and Social Security Numbers. If this is not convenient please advise us and we will arrange to file your application in accord with your convenience. Those citizens who have any changes to be made in their application must also come to the office and have a new application filled out for them.

This service is being offered with the intention of offering the best service possible with the least inconvenience to the people of Hancock County.

Gulf Management group proposes shrimp rules

Closure of portions of the Gulf Mexico to shrimp fishing is one management measure proposed by the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council.

These conservation measures are contained in a fishery management plan for Gulf shrimp.

Seasonal closure of the Fishery Conservation Zone (From nine to two hundred nautical miles) to shrimping off Texas and establishment of a shrimp nursery sanctuary off south Florida are intended to protect juvenile shrimp.

"This protection would permit the small shrimp to reach a larger size to provide a higher yield to fishermen," said Wayne Swingle of Tampa, Fla., executive director of the Council.

The closure off Texas would coincide with a 45-day closed season of its territorial sea by the State.

"Texas' authority extends nine nautical miles offshore but the small shrimp move beyond the protected zone," Swingle explained.

The practice has been for shrimpers to fish beyond the closed areas for larger shrimp and discard those too small to land.

The extension of the closed area farther offshore by federal authority reportedly will allow these small shrimp

According to Swingle, Florida lost jurisdiction at that time due to a court decision which adjusted the

Hearings begin at 7 p.m. and to grow large enough to be kept by the time the season reopens.

In another measure, a shrimp nursery-sanctuary in effect prior to 1976 off south Florida would be reestablished.

Public hearings on these and other proposed management measures for shrimp in the Gulf's Fishery Conservation Zone are scheduled for November and December, including Thursday, Dec. 6 hearing at the Biloxi Cultural Center.

Executive summaries of the plan may be obtained at the same locations or by contacting the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council, 5401 West Kennedy Boulevard, Suite 881, Tampa, Florida 33609.

The Gulf Council is one of eight such Regional Councils established by the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976. The Council is responsible for developing management plans for each fishery in the U.S. waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

AREAS OFF TEXAS ARE TO BE CLOSED TO SHRIMPING SEASONALLY, JUNE 1 TO JULY 15 AND IN FLORIDA SAY OFF THE FLORIDA KEYS TO BE CLOSED PERMANENTLY AS A SHRIMP NURSERY AREA.

Bay native is teacher-driver in unique education program

Hancock-Harrison has only mobile facility in U.S.

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR. If you happen to see Sandra Compreta driving down the highway in a large camper-van you might think she's headed for a few days of camping and relaxation. But, Sandra is actually going to work, in her classroom, bound for Gulfview School in the Lakeshore community.

Sandra, a Bay St. Louis native, is the pre-school teacher for the Hancock Migrant Education Program (MEP).

This program is unique in that the local MEP has the only totally mobile classroom in the United States for migrant children.

Monday and Tuesday the van is parked at Dukate Elementary, north of Biloxi, where Sandra's Aids Jane Searcy and Pam Bishop, begin

Program coordinators went early each morning, picking up about 26 pre-school migrant children, from Gulfport to D'Iberville, transporting them to the mobile facility parked at the school.

Wednesday through Friday the two aids carry out the same procedure for about the same number of youngsters from Long Beach to Pearlington and bring them to the van parked at Gulfview.

Then, at school day's end, the children are returned home by the aids.

The mobile classroom concept developed as a result of a survey of migrant families on the Gulf Coast several years ago by program officials.

They found that a significant number of these families needed supplementary pre-school education for these children.

Program coordinators went early each morning, picking to the various schools up about 26 pre-school children whose parents are engaged in seasonal employment found in the seafood, farming and forestry industries.

Although many services offered by the MEP are geared for economical assistance, the program is primarily an individual tutoring program designed to help children catch-up in their school work due to high absenteeism.

The MEP, on the Mississippi classroom space available for the pre-school program. Thus, the concept of taking the school to the children developed.

So, in December, 1976, a van was purchased and converted for classroom use and placed in operation January, 1977.

The MEP began on the Mississippi Gulf Coast in 1974. The goal of the program is to meet the educational needs of children whose parents are engaged in seasonal employment found in the seafood, farming and forestry industries.

Dot Hobgood, one of the two social workers in the two-county program, explained, "When we use the word migrant, some people don't understand how children may be eligible."

"There are children from families who have lived here for a lifetime who are eligible for the program. And quite often during the shrimp season families leave this area and go to Florida, Louisiana and Texas," Hobgood said.

"If they stay away from their school to engage in fishing (or another eligible occupation) on a full or part time basis, they are eligible for this program," Hobgood added.

Phyllis Genin, also a Bay St. Louis native, teaches about 25 first through sixth grade migrant children a week at Gulfview School, full time.

Phyllis explains, "There are about 40 children eligible for the program here at Gulfview, but some children are doing well enough not to need special tutoring."

"We also provide school supplies, shoes and medical attention to keep the children in school as much as possible. We also have referral services to help children and their families in many other areas," Phyllis added.

Teacher Joanne Hultstrand, a Natchez native who teaches at North Bay and Pass Christian Elementary Schools for MEP, says, "We don't necessarily just do skills work but also give children an opportunity to talk about their problems in their everyday life."

Joanne tutors 13 children in Bay St. Louis and 14 children enrolled in the elementary schools.

"Since Aug. 23, 1979, we've had 811 students go through our program in Harrison and Hancock counties. Five years ago we started as one of the smallest MEP's in the state but, now we have the largest program which even surpasses a similar program in the Delta region of the state," Hobgood adds.

The MEP also offers free or reduced services, through various agencies, to migrant families.

For instance, the Coastal Family Health Center, a partner organization, has a doctor, dentist and in-house lab facilities. These services are available for as little as $2 to $3.

North Bay Elementary Principal Billy Sills comments, "The MEP is good for the students who are behind

Heated homes keep cockroaches active during fall and winter

Cool temperatures may slow activity throughout Mississippi. However, household species remain active in heated houses or buildings.

"In 1977, Mississippi spent $12 million in cockroach control and for losses," reports Dr. Pat Harris, area pest management specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"These pests are annoying and can destroy foods, fabrics, book bindings and other materials," continued Dr. Harris. "They leave filth and may spread disease germs by running over food. An offensive and sickening liquid, secreted from their scent glands, may remain on dishes and clothing and ruin food."

Life cycles of all roaches are similar; all species lay an egg case containing 10 to 30 eggs. One pair of roaches may produce up to 40,000 young early. Newly hatched nymphs resemble adults, although they do not have wings.

Roaches remain in sheltered places during the day and feed at night.

They may be found in homes and buildings around the kitchen sink or drainboard, under refrigerators and in stoves, in cracks around the underneath cupboards and cabinets or inside them behind drawers, around pipes or conduits, behind windows or door frames, behind loose baseboards or molding strips, on the underside of tables and chairs, in the bathroom, and in radio and TV cabinets.

Roaches move freely in channels of trade. Every time a package is taken home, it could contain a roach or a roach egg case in result in an infestation.

To control roaches, first identify the pest and then apply the right chemical control measures properly. Also, practice and maintain sanitation, a major key in roach control. If good sanitation is maintained, chemical control may not be necessary.

However, if chemical control is necessary, remember roaches will not stay on a treated surface. Therefore, if the areas they normally occupy are treated, there is a much greater chance of getting the insecticide on the pests. These areas may be difficult to treat, warns Dr. Harris.

Many chemicals used as sprays or baits will control roaches when properly applied. A spray of 1 or 2 percent ronnel (Korlan), 2 percent Malathion, 0.5 percent diazinon, 0.5 percent chloryprifos (Dursban), or 1.1 percent propoxur (Baygon) will control roaches.

Baygon bait is also effective. Where roaches are not resistant, 2 percent chlordane is effective. See individual product labels for usage and precautions.

I felt as though I was at the old French Market in New Orleans last weekend, wolfing down the delicious "beignets" at the old coffee stand - but I was really in Jackson, Miss., and the beignet "French" chefs were grandsons Billy and Brian McGuire... and let you (how can you stop me?) ... that I have never had better beignets, even at the famed coffee stands of old New Orleans.

"Beignets" - translated from the French language as doughnut or fritter - are the Frenchman's answer to the great American doughnut, pronounced "bane - yeas" or something of the sort.

The secret of cooking beignets to that perfect crispier than crisp outside and all but hollow inside is, of course, to ensure that the fat or frying is hot and deep and that you refrain from crowding the skillet by cooking a small amount at a time.

So - remember, heat the oil, to about 360 degrees, I suppose, though I still use the old-time method of dropping a bit of water in to see if it sizzles, then I know it's time! So, here's:

Meteorological Society opens at Keesler AFB

A local chapter of the American Meteorological Society has been established at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.

Begun originally by members of Detachment 5 of the Air Weather Service here, the group's membership has grown to include members from the base weather station, the 920th Weather Reconnaissance Group of the Air Force Reserve, as well as from the Naval Oceanographic Research Lab in Bay St. Louis.

"Originally, we thought our membership would be limited to those in aerial reconnaissance," said 1st Lt. Joel Martin, chapter organizer. "But we'll have those involved with oceanography, operational weather forecasting and even TV weather presentation."

"The purpose of the chapter is to serve as a social fraternity," added Major James E. Henson, Detachment 5 commander.

Persons interested in the Society may contact members at 377-2039 for more information.

½ cup evaporated milk

½ package yeast

1 well-beaten egg

½ teaspoon salt

2 cups plain flour

Pour boiling water over the shortening, sugar and salt. Add milk and cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water and add to cooled mixture with the beaten egg.

Stir in two cups flour, and beat all together, adding a little more flour if needed to make a soft dough. Pile into a greased bowl, grease the top of the dough before covering with waxed paper and some sort of lid or cloth for awhile.

Chill until ready to use. Then roll dough to about a quarter inch thickness, cut into squares and fry a few at a time in deep, hot fat, browning on one side, then turning to brown on the other.

Drain on brown paper, then powder lavishly with confectioner's (powdered) sugar. (Makes 30 or so, depending upon how large you cut the squares. These are also delicious, in miniature size, as coffee or teatime treats.)

And - there's also a French doughnut mix in the store, if you want the beignets without the bother!

Beverages From Apples

Confusion exists in the names used to identify beverages made from apples.

Actually, there are four distinctly different beverages made from the natural juice of the apple: sweet cider, apple juice, apple wine and hard cider, says Barbara McLaurin, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service food and nutrition specialist.

Sweet cider is made from the fresh pressed juice of one or more varieties of apples. Whole, sound, fresh apples are sorted, washed, ground or chopped, and spread on racks in a cider press where the juice is extracted. The juice is then strained and allowed to settle to remove large particles, such as seeds and bits of peel and flesh. The fine particles are left in the juice, giving it a cloudy and almost opaque appearance. For genuine old fashioned sweet cider, no additional processing is done, she says.

Sweet cider requires refrigeration. It is available year round, but is most plentiful from harvest until supplies of fresh apples are less available after December or January.

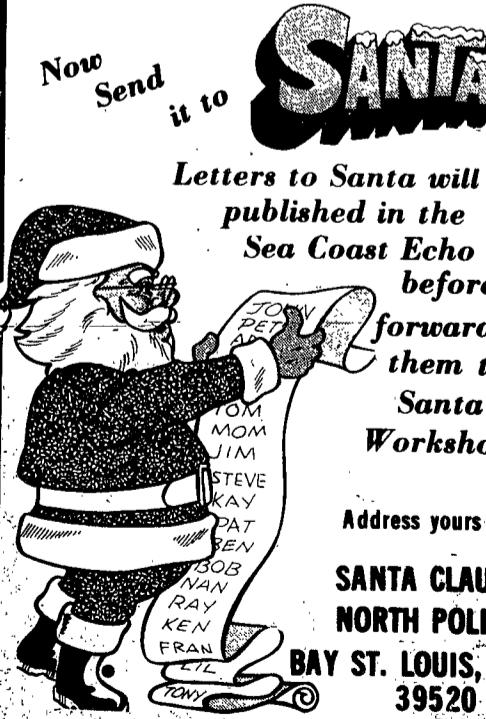

Without preservatives, it will keep for only a few days unrefrigerated and up to two weeks refrigerated. With preservatives or processing, it will remain sweet and unfermented for longer.

Apple juice differs from cider in that it receives additional processing. The fresh-pressed juice is more finely filtered and treated, thus producing a clearer, lighter colored juice.

Bare feet: 'A pleasurable communication with Mother Earth'

In my collection I have a number of pictures of babies with long dresses on. These pictures always excite the curiosity of people who see them. Back when I can first remember in the late 1890's and early 1900's all young babies wore long dresses.

The dresses would extend to at least about 12" below the feet of the babies. I have been asked many times why they wore the long clothing. In reply I have often asked the questioner, "You mean to say that you do not know why babies wore long dresses back in the long ago?" Very few could tell why the babies were dressed in this way, and that few, without exception, were older people.

The mothers generally were very proud of their babies. The long dresses would be highly decorated, they were crocheted, knitted and made up in attractive ways to make the baby noticed and admired. In looking back, it seems to me that women were more proud of their babies back then.

How many people reading this know why the babies were dressed as they were? Back 80 years ago the type houses most people lived in did not have the facilities for proper heating in cold weather. I well remember how on cold days we would stand by the fire in the fireplace and be warm on the side towards the fire while the other side would be cold and how we would turn first one side and then the other towards the blazing fire.

The long dresses protected a baby's feet. The child could not kick the long dresses off to expose their feet to the cold. One could kick and kick without uncovering the feet. Without this protection, a small child's feet would have frozen in real cold weather.

Back when I grew up there were no such things as baby foods for sale - no formulas, no preparations that babies thrive on now. There was no baby doctor to go to either. It is much easier in these modern times to feed the baby - either the father or the mother can get up anytime of the night and feed the baby the formula or preparation kept handy in the home. Back when I grew up it was surely not Papa who fed the baby but Mama who fed it from her own breast.

After the baby got a little older and was ready to eat solid food there were still no recipes or formulas for feeding the child. It was the commonplace thing for the mother to masticate the food in her own mouth and then transfer it to the mouth of the baby.

Older people will remember that this was the regular way to feed a child back in the old days. I am sure this method of feeding baby is not much in vogue now, but in talking to an old couple recently it was told by the old lady that her own daughters feed their children in this way when they are real small, and she stated emphatically that they got along better than children fed in modern ways.

It is amazing the knowledge that older people had of rearing their children, and taking care of them back when there were no clinics, no would be sure to know better specialists to go to, no source next time than to cause an information except the old uproar during the church service.

As little boys grew older and began to wear pants, they were clothed much different from their mother and her grandmother what was good for the children. Sometime I think that this practical and tried knowledge was better for the child than the care of modern nutritionists and specialists of today.

I think that it approaches a tragedy that we have lost so much of the practical knowledge and skills tested so long by our forebears. We live today in a highly artificial age. We have allowed ourselves to become so dependent for our very existence on the whims and actions of others that we would be soon destroyed if our complicated economy should ever have a short time break down.

When the woman of 80 years ago where I lived went to church she took her whole family with her, the baby and all the others. If the baby became restless during the service the mother knew how to keep the child quiet. No other way would serve to keep the little fellow from becoming noisy, the mother did not hesitate to bare her breast and let the child nurse, and no one thought anything of it.

Or maybe she would carry the child with her a sugar-tit. What it was made of I don't know but it pleased a child and the contents were slow to be exhausted.

Usually the child would suck on this sugar tit for the balance of the service if the preacher was extremely long-winded.

A string was fastened to the sugar tit so that if the child swallowed it it could be pulled back out. If, however, the child became too tired during a long service and began to make too much noise, the mother would take it outside the church or into a side room to try to pacify it there.

If the child quieted down, the mother would most likely carry it back into the church service. If the child was old enough to know better, a good spanking would most likely be administered so that the child pleasure in turning the feet loose from their winter prison of shoes to luxuriate in the feel of green grass and soft plowed land.

There is a mysteriously eerie magic, or magnetism that possesses a barefoot boy who walks in the green grass and on soft plowed land when the first mild days of summer come.

The old time mother knew that the little boy's shirt would come down to just below the waist line and would be circled at the waist line with buttons. His pants were always knee pants with the top circled with button holes to match the buttons on the shirt.

No underwear was worn in summer but in winter the boys wore red flannel underwear

would keep boys warm except in the very coldest weather but would be hot and itchy on mild days.

Boys wore these kinds of clothes until they were about 13 or 14 years of age, and their voices began to change and they were growing into manhood. They then began to wear long pants with suspenders to hold them up.

Little girls dressed back 70 years ago about like they do now when they are wearing dresses and not pants. When the girls began to mature into young womanhood they gradually lowered their dresses from just below the knees down almost to the ground by the time they were 16 to 17 years old.

We all, boys and girls, went barefoot in the summer. I remember now how I used to yearn for the time to come when I could go barefoot.

There were 4,247,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending November 10, 1979, 4 percent below the previous week and 7 percent below the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1979 are 250,889,000 broiler chicks - 2 percent above a year earlier.

EGG-TYPE Hatcheries in the State set 308,000 eggs for egg-type chicks during the week ending November 10, 1979, 4 percent above the previous week and 62 percent above the 190,000 set during the comparable week a year ago. Harvested acreage is placed at 11,500 acres, down 4 percent from the 12,000 acres harvested last year.

Production from the 1979 crop is estimated at 1,035,000 cwt. for a yield of 90 cwt. per acre. This is 9 percent below the 1978 production of 1,140,000 cwt.

The value of the 1979 watermelon crop is placed at 4,057,000 dollars, 11 percent above the 1978 figure of 3,659,000 dollars.

Excessive spring rains resulted in some abandoned fields. However, the early rains provided moisture for good growth in most remaining fields.

Dry weather in early summer lowered production somewhat in the southeast.

UNITED STATES Production of the summer quarter watermelon crop is estimated at 11.6 million cwt., 6 percent less than a year ago.

Harvested area is placed at 109 thousand acres; a percent below last year. Yield per acre at 106 cwt. compares with 107 cwt. in 1978.

Plantings were on schedule in Alabama. Yields were reduced because of heavy rainfall and a blight problem in some areas. Most of California's Desert watermelon crop was harvested during the spring quarter.

Carryover into the summer was a little higher this year because of delayed plantings. California's summer watermelon yields were fair. Growing conditions were generally good after a slow start.
